"Because of YACS I know it's ok to cry when I am scared. I know that there will always be a room of people that completely understand what I am going through and a list of emails that I can send to at any moment and will receive a heartfelt honest response. Surviving cancer is a lifelong battle, both physical and emotional, and YACS provides the support that every survivor needs no matter what stage of treatment they are in. I have been blessed to be a YACS member over the past few years, and through the support group meetings and monthly social events, I have gained the courage to fight for my life, the strength to show my scars proudly, and have made friends for life. Being a 10 year breast cancer survivor does not define me, but it is a part of me and YACS has shown me that is something to be proud of." – Erin (testimonial, YACS group member)
